DETAILED ACTION

This Office Action is in response to amendments/arguments filed 10/7/2009.
Currently, claims 24-32 are pending in the instant application.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 10/7/2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues the Garelick does not disclose a connecting portion between the first and second legs that provides said face contacting surface. However, Garelick discloses a connection portion (46) between the first and second legs (fig. 1, 47). The interior of the connecting portion (46) would contact the bridge of the user's nose, the portion of the user's face just around the mouth, and the user's lips depending on the shape of the user's face. Therefore, Garelick still reads on claims 24-30.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 24-25 and 28-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Garelick (US Patent 2,823,671). Garelick discloses a mask comprising a frame (10), a cushion (40) attached to the frame (10) and having a U-shaped cross-section (fig. 1) defining a face contacting surface. A first leg of the U-shaped configuration (fig. 1) is proximal the frame at one end (11), a second leg (47) of the U-shaped configuration (fig. 1) spaced away from the frame (10), and a recess (45) defining the space between the first and second legs of the U-shaped configuration (fig. 1). Garelick also discloses a connection portion (46) between the first and second legs (fig. 1, 47). The interior of the connecting portion (46) would contact the bridge of the user's nose, the portion of the user's face just around the mouth, and the user's lips depending on the shape of the user's face. The surface of the connecting portion (46) that contacts the user's face is convex with respect to the user's face. The frame (10) has an inner peripheral portion that is provided to the cushion (40). The cushion (40) extends away (fig. 7) from the frame (10). The first (fig. 1) and second (47) legs are generally mirror image of one another, which provides the U-shape. The second leg (47) is substantially parallel to the first leg (fig. 1), and the second leg (47) slightly curves away from the patient side (11) of the frame (10). The cushion is made of flexible, resilient material, such as rubber or the like. The mask is fully capable of being used with a CPAP machine.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3772

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 26-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Garelick (US Patent 2,823,671). Garelick substantially discloses the claimed invention; see rejection to claim 24 above. However, Garelick discloses the cushion is made of flexible, resilient material, such as rubber or the like. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the Garelick cushion to comprise a foam cushion or a silicon material, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 3772

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
